As The Whistle Blows

The Redskins play host to their first Lower Bucks County League opponent in the 1961 season. Woodrow Wilson, Pennsbury and William Tennent--the next three home games--make up Neshaminy's three Division A opponents. Tonight's game with the Rams makes number six for the Redskins and marks the midpoint in the eleven-game schedule for the 1961 season.

Woodrow Wilson, winless in its first four contests so far this season, brings to the Neshaminy reservation a new head coach in Lou Sorrentino, formerly coach of the highly-rated Shamokin Greyhounds of the Northern Division of the Eastern Football Conference. Ram Coach Sorrentino has made one obvious change in Woodrow Wilson's third team to play in the Lower Bucks County League and that is to change to the T-formation type of offense. Wilson's first two teams tried the single-wing offense, the offense used by the Redskins for the past ten seasons.

Coach Sorrentino, however, has not been able to change the losing ways of the Rams, even though Wilson was able to tie Bensalem, 20 - 20, two weeks ago. Last week Pennsbury beat the Rams for their third loss in four games this season.

Neshaminy's party last week with the Warriors (59 - 0) allowed the fans to see every member of Cuskie's 41-man squad; and if the Redskins realize that their first five games were "only for kicks", and from now on their tenth consecutive Lower Bucks League title is at stake, we may see a repeat performance of the past two Ram games (1959 - 59-0; 1960 - 40-0).

Ram Coach Lou Sorrentino has previously been associated with some of the finest football teams in the state, perhaps tonight he will see that type of football again, but this time in the uniforms of the NESHAMINY REDSKINS. We'll all find out. ....
